When Selecting a Manufacturer or Supplier

Focus on Energy recommends that you interview more than one potential provider of biofuels before you make a purchase decision. Questions that you may ask include:

- What grade of pellets do you have for sale? Are they rated by PFI?
- What do you charge for delivery? Could you estimate a delivery price to my location?
- Do you offer discounts for volume or regular purchases?
- How can a payment be made (COD, credit card, check, other)?
- How can I lock in a quoted price?
- How many customers do you serve that are buying biofuels and/or how much do you typically sell in a year?
- How long have you been in the fuel supply business?
- How will the resource be unloaded at my location?
